ALLIES STILL READY TO MEET TURKEY'S MOVE

Extension of Time Limit By Turkey Does Not Change Plans

Constantinople Says Order Closing Smyrna Port Will Stand

Paris, Feb. 12.—(By The A. P.)—The three-day extension of the Turkish ultimatum demanding the withdrawal of the allied battleships at Smyrna is not expected to modify the positive stand taken by France and Great Britain and so far as is known the orders to the naval commanders to defend their positions if attacked still holds good. Press dispatches confirm reports, which have also reached London, that the Turks last Saturday decided to wait another three days for the withdrawal of the war craft. They reserved to themselves full liberty of action after the expiration of that time.

Constantinople newspapers maintain that the situation will be adjusted satisfactorily, although they declare that the order closing the port of Smyrna will not be countermanded. One journal, terming the increase of British naval strength in the eastern Mediterranean as an "unamiable and hostile act" asserts that Turkey is demanding the departure of the allied war craft as a measure for her own safety.

RUSSO-TURK ALLIANCE NOT FEARED IN EAST

General Secretary of Near East Relief Says Russian Transportation Service Too Weak to Make It Possible.

New York, Feb. 12.—(By NEA.)—Hope that hostilities will be averted between the Turks and the allies in the dangerous Smyrna crisis was expressed by Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, in an interview with NEA Service.

Vickrey has just returned from Asia Minor, where he inspected refugee relief being done by America.

'I am inclined to minimize reports of a new war rising out of disputes and ultimatums passing between the Turks and European powers, he said. "Our relief workers are there in a purely non political capacity, and with a viewpoint that is entirely humane I cannot express opinions that are in any way political.'

Twenty-five thousand orphans who are dependent upon the Near East Relief for their daily food are in the Caucasus, outside Turkish territory. Vickrey was asked what the fate might be of these children, caught on the fringe of Russia, in case war flared out of the Smyrna crisis and Russia possibly entered into amilitary alliance with the Turks.

"Scare stories of a possible Russo-Turkish alliance are scarcely creditable," he said. "Russia has vast power and resources in men; but her transportation system is in such a broken down condition that it would seem physically impossible for them to join the Turks.

"Russia is hardly to be considered an important factor in offensive ware. Her power could be asserted, however, in a defensive way in case she were attacked.'

Vickrey spent some time inSmyrna and Constantinople. He said he saw a single ship in Smyrna harbor that had carried 27,000 refugees away to Greece. In one voyage 11,500 persons were carried.

"In one ramshackle building in Constantinople," he said, 'I saw 300 newly made orphans whom our relief workers had picked up in the streets and abandoned homes in the single town of Ordu, in Asia Minor."

Lincoln Held Money Due Government Several Years

Washington, Feb. 12.—A musty volume in the archives of the postoffice department in which is recorded the appointment of Abraham Lincoln os postmaster at New Salem, Sangamon county, Illinois, on May 7, 1833, recalls on his birthday anniversary today an interesting story of his postmastership which is said to be a tradition of the service.

As related in a memorandum made public by the department it was several years after the postoffice at New Salem had been closed in 1839 that one of the few special agents then assigned to that duty called on Lincoln, then a struggling young lawyer of 27, to close up finally the accounts of the office. The former postmaster in accordance with departmental routine had waited for the agent's visit. The latter, according to the story, presented Lincoln a statement showing a balance due the government from the postoffice amounting to about $17.

"Lincoln" as the memorandum relates the story, "responded by rising from his chair, crossing his office to an old trunk in the corner and taking from it a cotton rag tied with string. Nntying it he produced the exact amount of money demanded by the postoffice agent, indicating that he had held the sum intact and untouched ever since his retirement as postmaster.

"I never use any man's money but my own," he ejaculated calmly.

Senator Jones Proposes to Consider Shipping and Debt Daily

Washington, Feb. 12.—Joint consideration of the administration shipping bill and the British debt settlement legislation, the latter during the "morning hour" each day, and the former during the remainder of the session, was proposed today by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, as a solution for the senate's legislative problem.

Further White House conferences were arranged today to develop more definite plans for preventing a conflict between the shipping and British debt funding bills during the three weeks of congress remaining for consideration of these and other important measures yet to be disposed of.

President Harding is understood to have advised tentatively against displacing the shipping bill for the debt at a conference yesterday with Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, commerce committee chairman in charge of the former measure, and Senator Curtis, of Kansas, assistant Republican leader. A more definite program was expected to result from conferences today between the President and Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, managing the British debt bill; Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, a member of the debt commissioner Carl Hoopes today or-

Doughboys From Rhine Must Rearrange Spending Habits

New York, Feb. 12.—Forty-five of the 152 doughboys who returned from Coblenz on the transport St. Mihiel yesterday, turned their attention today to the future. For these 45 are married, most of them to German brides, and soon are to be discharged from the service of Uncle Sam, and their big problem is a return to normalcy, a sudden descent to the American dollar standard after months on the Rhine as "mark millionaires."

Awaiting their discharge at Fort Hamilton, the husbands—15 of them are fathers, as well—are making plans for a radical change in their spending habits.

'Sure," said one of them—and he expressed the sentiments of his benedict buddies "I'm glad to get back, me being a good American and all that. But we sure was sittin' pretty, there, on the Rhine. Nobody can say we weren't sitting pretty. No, sir. We were gettin' paid in American dollars but we got in marks—3,000 for a dollar Sittin' on top of the world I'll say. But sure, I'm glad to get back. It's good to see the states again. But of course, there'll be times when I'll think of that beer at half a cent a seidel and a full meal for 10 cents."

He pointed to his wife, a robust fraulein, flaxenhaired and smiling.

"See that nifty dress," he asked. "Cost six bucks. The hat? One buck. Fur coat, 40 dollars. Yeh, its like that in Coblenz. And rents—the same and grub.

"But I'm glad enough to get back. I was only saying. It's good to be back. But I might as well be honest about it. There's goin' to be times—".

"But don't get me wrong. It's good to see the states again."

FRENCH CHIEFS TALK OVER RUHR SITUATION

Paris, Feb. 12.—(By The A. P.)—General Degoutte, who spent part of the week end in Paris, had long conferences with President Millerand, Premier Poincare, Marshal Foch and Minister of War Maginot, at which every aspect of the Ruhr occupation was discussed. It is understood that the conferees also went over the new order prohibiting the exportation of malt and other manufactures to unoccupied Germany from Ruhr and Rhineland plants.

Before returning to Duesseldorf, General Degoutte told a representative of the Echo De Paris that he was well satisfied with the conversations and that he was entirely confident of the final result of the occupation.

Perhaps it is yet a long way off, he said, for the task is difficult, but there is no possible doubt but that we shall prevail in the end.

GERMANS PLAN GENERAL STRIKE; TANKS ARE SENT

French Prepare to Handle Any Possible Disorder at Herne

Boycott in Ruhr is Extended to French and Belgian Area

Duesseldorf, Feb. 12—(By A. P.)—Reports that the Germans are organizing a general strike at Herne, not far from Bochum have led to the dispatch of French tanks to that place.

The Germans are boycotting the forces of occupation throughout the Herne district and the French have been obliged to take over the work of some of the German police. The boycott in fact is becoming more and more popular throughout the Ruhr and the Germans have decided to extend it to Essen, refusing to do business with the French and Belgians beginning today.

Commenting on the results of the first month of the occupation General Degoutte told the correspondent that Germany "is branded as a quitter before the entire world."

"But I solemnly warn Germany," he contitnued, that if a single one of my soldiers is harmed and she forces another battle on us, she will not stay our hand by crying 'Kamerad.' It will be a fight to the finish—a complete knockout."

The general expressed the opinion that Germany would not fight until she believed herself stronger than her adversary.

"The moment she feels an opponent is more powerful" he said, "she surrenders. She pleaded and begged for an armistitce under circumstances in which the allies would have considered they had just begun to fight."

General Degoutee declared France sought redress rather than the economic destruction of Germany as has been charged by chancellor Cuno.

"We want Germany to honor her signature," he said. "The econmic ruin of Germany would prevent her from paying us. Germany by fomenting strikes, is responsible for the present situation of achieving her own ruin."

Pointing to the great difficulties France faced in the Ruhr, the General said that even American energy and genius for organization might have found the situation difficult. He added however that "right and might" were on the side of France and that she would win.

WESTPHALIAN WORKERS CALL CONFERENCE

Berlin, Feb. 12.—(By The A. P.)—An Essen dispatch today to the Rote-Fahne says that a conference of the Rhenish Westphalian workers has been called for March 4. The meeting is being organized by a special committee appointed by the workmen's council to request the summoning of a conference of leading international labor organizations to take "all measures necessary in the interest of the proletariat."

Organizations thus approached include the red workers' internationale, the second and third internationales, the social democratic and communist parties, and the trades unions of France, Germany, Belgium and England. Several German labor organizations also have been addressed, the dispatch adds.

The Berlin press finds little to its liking in the Franco-Belgian note prohibiting German cabinet members from entering the Ruhr. One newspaper declares that the ministers will disregard the order, while Hugo Stinnes paper, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, finds the note ludicrous.

THREE HOLD TICKETS ON HAVANA LONG SHOT

Havana, Feb. 12—Two Americans and a bland Chinaman, were the only persons here who had money on Lieut. William J. Murray, the four year old bay gelding, who won yesterday's first race at Oriental Park, paying his backers $696, $50 for each $2 invested.

One of the Americans was a track follower. The other served in the war under a lieutenant bearing the same name as the horse.

Lieutenant Murray was sold for $350 last Wednesday.

Neither the former owner nor the present owner had any money on him yesterday.

An ovation was tendered the horse and jockey when the price was posted.

SECOND ROUND OF PLAY BEGINS TUESDAY

The second round of the Sunday School Basket Ball League begins Tuesday night with four Class A teams in action.

First Baptist plays St. Pauls Lutheran and Hebron M. E. plays Neal Ave. M. E. These games should offer some very fast and clever basket ball.

Each class will begin anew their standing which gives every team the same chance for first place. The games will start promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

The E. Main U. B-First Presbyterian game has been postponed until a later date.

Wesleyan Will Try Wittenberg Tuesday

Delaware, Feb 12.—With "Fighting Bob" Thompson back in the line-up Ohio Wesleyan's five is out to smash Wittenberg's unbroken record of victories when Methodists and Lutherans tangle at Springfield Tuesday.

Their recent defeat by Coach Godfrey's men has encouraged the Wesleyan quintet for the players say, "If they could only beat us that bad with Tommy out, we'll clean 'em when he is in." It is further insisted by Wesleyan followers that the Wittenberg team has reached and passed the top of its form and is due for a break and a beating. Fans also call attention to the fact that the only game Wesleyan has taken from Wittenberg in the last three years was won at Springfield.

Convinced that there will be a sizzling hot game in store at Springfield Tuesday night, many fans are making plans to accompany the Ohio Wesleyan team.

Billy Evans Says:

Is it possible for an infielder to be too fast on his feet?

The case of Joe Evans, recently traded by Cleveland to Washington, prompts such a question.

Evans came to the Cleveland club as a third baseman of great promise. Very fast and the possessor of a fine arm, he seemed to have two very necessary requisites for a star third sacker.

Playing third base for Cleveland, Evans met with only fair success. He was inclined to be erratic. One day he would look like a second Bill Bradley or Jimmy Collins, while the next day he would be very ordinary.

Evans' greatest fault was over-running ground balls. Because of his great speed he would very often come in too fast on ground balls, often over-running them, and getting himself all out of position for a throw. This was particularly true on bunts.

Evans was made over into an outfielder, and a mighty good one. It is said his failure at third base never set very well. His sale to Washington, with the word of Clark Griffith that he will be used at third, has caused Evans to change his mind about retiring to practice medicine.

Joe Evans is convinced that he can make good as an infielder. The success of Frankie Frisch has satisfied him on that point.

50 H. P.—Amazing Performance—$995!

Jewett's six cylinders are 3¼ by 5 inches. They give you full fifty horsepower. No automobile of comparable size and price was ever built with such power!

Consider the amazing performance of this fine motor in the 2805-pound Jewett. Acceleration from 5 to 25 miles in seven seconds. You can take traffic in high gear at two miles an hour, or the straight-ahead stretch at sixty. Beat any car climbing hills.

It's the wonderful Paige-built motor that does these things — a motor finely built and ideally lubricated. High-pressure oiling sends a gallon of oil every 46 seconds to all main and connecting rod bearings at 15 miles per hour. All moving parts are remarkably smooth, noticeably silent. The new-type, all-steel, oil-tight universal joints — oiled, not greased—have sealed-in lubrication good for 15,000 miles.

Jewett gives fast shifting of gears with a bare 3-inch movement. Thanks to a new clutch, shift as fast as your hand can move. No pause, no clash. Drop from high to second at 30 miles per hour: that's Jewett gear-mastery. Ball-bearing spindles, an exclusive Jewett betterment, give superior steering ease.

Every inch of it is ruggedly built; and Jewett's 200 pounds greater weight gives big-car riding ease. Genuine leather upholstery. Built-in transmission lock. Drum-type head lamps. Snug curtains; abundant riding room.

See for yourself this high-power, Paige-built Jewett Six, at $995. In all the world there never was such a car at such a price!

GOV. PARKER IS OUT-DOOR MAN

Louisiana Executive Who Goes After Hooded Raiders is Naturalist

Likes Hunting, Plays a Good Game of Golf and Is Wealthy

Baton Rouge, La., Feb. 12.—(By NEA).—What sort of a man is Governor John M. Parker who has set about it to stamp out masked terrorism in Louisiana.

Who went to President Harding to demand federal aid when evidence reached him that masked bands had supplanted the civil authorities in parts of Louisiana.

Governor John M. Parker

Who, out of his own pocket, paid for the present investigation of the murders of two by hooded mobs in Morehouse parish—

And who now proposes to call a specal session of the state legislature to legislate masked secret organizations out of existence and to impeach the civil authorities of Morehouse parish?

Parker is a farmer, a cotton dealer, a golfer, a hunter, a former intimate friend of Theodore Roosevelt and in many respects his life is very similar to that of Rosevelt.

Parker was born in 1863 at Bethel Church, Miss. He entered the cotton business in New Orleans in 1880 and still owns a cotton factory there.

He was the progressive party nominee for the vice president of the United States in 1916. He became governor of Louisiana in 1920 and his term will last until 1924. Then his friends want him to run for the United States senate, but he says he won't.

Golfing and hunting are his hobbies. He can beat the best at golf. And the bears and wildcats of Louisiana swamps can tell of his prowess a. a hunter.

Parker is straight as an arrow and of medium built. He possesses none of the languor the northerner associates with those of the south. He always walks as if he were about to catch a train.

The governor is a wealthy man. He owns a big farm near St. Francisville, La., and another at his birthplace, Bethel Church, Miss.

He spends his money generously for those who need it. In 1909, when the boll weevil swept through the cotton district, funds supplied by Parker kept many a cotton grower's head above water until the trouble was past.

Probably no one not a scientist has a better knowledge of the habits of birds and wild animals than Parker. Besides he's a natural mimic. He delights in imitating owls, which he does so perfectly he can call owls to him when driving at night.

Parker is similar to Rosevelt in that he was born a weak and puny boy. Like Rosevelt, he went west and took to range-riding and cattle-punching. There he gained the marvelous constitution he possesses today.

"Never quit a fight because you figure it a forlorn hope," is Parker's motto.

That's the kind of a man who's pledged himself to tear the masks from the terrorists of Louisiana. Watch what he reveals under it.

EFFECT OF FRANZ LISZT.

Autograph letters, trinkets and other articles associated with Franz Liszt have been brought to this country by Rudolph Siegel at the request of the composer's heirs, remarks the New York Herald, for whose benefit they are to be sold.

Included in the collection of 80 items, is a death mask and a lock of Liszt's long gray hair. The genuineness of the latetr is attested by Lena Schmalhausen, who was the house-keeper at the Liszt home at the time of his death, in 1886. The cast, which is in a glass case, is in excellent condition. A prayer book, much used and worn by the great composer, is an item closely woven with his life as the two presentation books given to him on his 70th birthday, October 22, 1881.

One of these books contains many autographs of musicians who were famous during this period. In it Hans von Bulow, eminent pianist, is represented in two separate autographed notations. Translated from his script, which is in German, they read: "As soon as we artists are able to emancipate ourselves from the plebeian vice of envy and fear we will be enabled to consider ourselves the pinnacle of aristocracy and music as photographic reproduction of the acoustics of eternity."

Thirty letters in French and 13 in German comprise the collection of letters, among which is correspondence from Theresa Carreno, Carl Tausig and Pablo de Sacrasate.

ELECTRICAL TRANSMISSION

The world-wde renown of Niagra Falls has lent particular distinction to the great electric plants installed there, but in so far as the Niagara plants are long-distance ones the work being done there has tene surpassed in several instances, both in the distance covered and in the amount of power transmitted.

Many of the greatest electric plants are among the Rocky mountains and on the Pacific cost. At Fresno, in California, a reservoir on the brow of a nearby mountain supplies the heaviest head of water used for such a purpose, 1,400 feet, and the power is distributed over a distance of thirty-five miles. In some of the western installations the water, after serving its purpose in generating electric power, is utilized for irrigating land.

SAY HELICOPTER IS SUCCESSFUL

Aviation Experts at McCook Field Say Russian's Invention Meets All Tests

Dapton, Fab. 12.—(By NEA)—Will airplanes soon directly from city streets without the necessity of an open field for the take-off?

Or will planes be able to alight on any roof or in the street?

And in time of war will planes be able to rise from the deck of a battleship, do their work of destruction and then return to alight again on the battleship's deck?

All that is possible if the new DeBothezaat helicopter is a complete success, say air experts at McCook field here.

The DeBothezaat helicopter—the first airplane that rises directly from the ground—has been successfully tried out here and now is undergoing thorough tests.

The first try-out took place Dec. 18, 1922, just 20 years and one day after the Wright brothers' first flight, which also was at Dayton.

Dr. George DeBothezaat, Russian scientist, is the inventor of the new helicopter. He started work on his device in July, 1921, aided by experts at McCook field. The government spent $200,000 to perfect the machine. Fifty-three flights already have been made.

The machine is driven by a 150-horsepower motor. There are four upright propeller shafts, atop of which are flexible attachments by means of which the propellers are tilted to make the helicopter travel in a given direction after altitude has been reached.

Thus far the helicopter never has risen higher than ten feet, but it is expected to prove itself capable of soaring to great altitudes. It glides gracefully and can reach the ground easily from any height.

Major Thurman H. Bane, then commandant of McCook field, made the first flight in the presence of United States army service officers who later declared they were satisfied DeBothezaat had solved the problem of vertical ascent.

We Turn to Lincoln For Guidance!

TODAY we pay honor to the immortal Lincoln—the son of pioneers; the self-made student; the backwoods lawyer; the great emancipator and the martyred president.

Nowhere can we turn more profitably for guidance in the vexing industrial and political problems confronting the nation than to the ideals of unselfish service and courageous faith of this great American.

The homely philosophy of this wonderful man is the philosophy of this Store—and we shall hold to his truths, for from his life we draw the greatest of civic lessons—Americanism.

A Bible Thought for Today

FORGIVENESS:—Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until seventy times seven.—Matthew 18:21,22.

A LINCOLN REFLECTION

It is easy for prosperous and comfortable people to issue solemn admonitions to young folks from struggling and discouraged homes, and tell them that if they work hard and save their money, they will make their way in life. But the people who stand outside and look at their struggles do not always realize what they have to contend with.

One thing can be said, that no sentiment of aristocracy bars the way to the rise of such young persons. At this season when addresses and orations have been given in honor of Abraham Lincoln, (February 12th being Lincoln's birthday) the people have been reminded that origin from a lowly home is no barrier to a man's advance. If a man has the qualities of achievement, people admire him the more when he does rise above early surroundings.

But young people who start from such surroundings, do encounter obstacles, and perhaps the worst of them is the low standard of many associates. Their mothers may have to go out and work all day, and the children are turned loose. They come in contact with many idle youngsters whose only idea of life is to get spending money and throw it away for foolishness. They often acquire bad habtis.

The public schools furnish an open door through which such a young person has a chance to rise. Too frequently that open door is closed at an early age, and the youngster is taken out that he may go to work. The child who is given no inspiration at home frequently never gets interested in books, and he longs to escape from the tedious labors of his school.

A wonderful stroke for the community and the country is performed by the teacher that plants hope and ambition in the hearts of such young people. If they once get the resolution to make something of themselves, the way is wide open to their success. They can do no better than to emulate the example of Abraham Lincoln who spent his leisure hours in reading good books.

THE BOY SCOUT DRIVE

The Boy Scout movement, which has been celebrating its annual Boy Scout week, has been making a drive for a membership of 500,000 which it desired to attain February 15. The public will hope that this mark has been reached. The people of this town and county are especially "strong" for the Boy Scouts.

It is surprising what changes have been made in boys simply by putting them in the khaki uniform of the scouts and having them go through the ritual of this organization. Previously a boy may be a kind of individualist and outlaw, who plays his own game and whose chief desire is to work his own free will. Association with the scout movement gives him his first conception of co-operation, of joining with other individuals to gain certain ends. It is his first step in citizenship.

The transformation is seen when the boys who used to chase around in predatory gangs, take hold with enthusiasm to work for a Clean-Up Week or other public enterprise. A movement that shapes boy nature into the mould of citizenship is a thing worthy of all possible encouragement here in Licking county.

FOOLISH WIVES.

(Philadelphia Record)

The more or less expected has happened. "Aunt Alice" Robertson, the vanishing "lady from Oklahoma," has joined in the controversy stirred up by the nimble pen of Mrs. Miles Poindexter. Since she says some things that no mere man would dare to say, let us listen in upon her broadcasting message.

"Foolish wives with social ambitions,' says the lady who is soon to go back to private life in Oklahoma, "do more to wreck political careers than their husbands' foolish votes. Women who are ambitious for the political success of their husbands should remember that in politics the pen is more dangerous than the sword. The man on horseback usually rides to power: a few scratches of a wifely pen and his mount may throw him."

This is all very well, but it would be difficult for Aunt Alice to adduce many instances of such croppers induced by indiscrete wives in American politics. Although there are many who may be inclined to accept her statement on the basis of traditional belief in the irresponsible waging of the feminine tongue, and examination of the records may show some surprising facts.

Congress woman Robertson quotes with considerable gusto the dictum of the late Camp Clark, that "public men dig their graves with their teeth," but goes on to suggest that he "would have been nearer the point if he had said 'their wives drive brass tacks in their husbands' political coffins with newspaper articles." Making all possible allowance for the foolishness of Mrs. Poindexter's recent newspaper gossipping, the fact remains that men in politics—at least in America—have been quite as indiscreet as the women in their use of the "poor-back pen." We have only to cite the case of th elate President Roosevelt, in his "Dear Maria" letters to Mrs. Bellamy-Storer. Of course, the trouble grew out of "Dear Maria's" breach of confidence in giving those letters to the public, but the indiscreation was none the less Roosevelt's, for he should have known better than to write these letters in the first place. It must be admitted in Mrs. Poindexter's case that she had no idea that her authorship of those newspaper articles was to be disclosed.

In more recent times—only a few months ago, in fact—we had the spectacle of President Harding writing indiscreet things upon the prohibition question to Mrs. Corinne Rosevelt Robinson. So, while it may be true that the wives of prominent men are frequently foolish, it is equally clear that they have no monopoly of such foolishness. Weak human nature takes no account of sex.

INSURANCE AGAINST DISHONESTY

(Christian Business Man)

The belief is too general in the business world that many men are corrupt and dishonest. We hear the expressions: "I would not trust that man out of my sight;" "He is as crooked as a snake;" and others of a similar nature. When dealing with those whom he holds under suspicion, the business man uses a caution, a wariness, which reacts in a definite way upon himself.

Usually, the man who by some is accused of indulging in sharp practices, has a circle of friends who have complete confidence in him. It is a noteworthy fact that he seldom violates their confidence, although his dealings with those who suspect him may not bear close scrutiny.

This fact discloses that a man builds in his own mind the kind of treatment he receives; if he expects to be dealt with unjustly, he will unconsciously show his expectation by a cautious and suspicious manner, and that which he has built into his consciousness comes to him. It is likewise true that of a man recognizes equally his own divinity and the divine nature of the man with whom he deals, he will receive treatment that is in keeping with the thought he sends out.

Suspicion and distrust canot exist where the minds of men come together in a recognition of oneness. To forget former methods of judging, to know and to measure up to his divine nature, are the sure means available to man for his protection from dishonest dealing, for it will transmute dishonest dealing into honest dealing.

That the mileage of the public roads in the United States in 1920 was approximately 2,777,000? About 300,000 miles were surfaced. Nearly $200,000,000 were spent in construction and maintenance of roads during the year, over $11,730,000 by the Federal Government, over $106,860,000 by the States, and over $81,700,000 by local governments.

TO PROTECT INVESTORS.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Ohio has had a blue sky law for a decade. Its purpose is to protect investors against the fraudulent promoter and the shyster stock salesman.

Drafted shortly after the first blue sky law legislation in the United States was enacted, this Ohio law has many imperfections. It is not proof against th esharper who preys continually upon the smaller savings of thousands and who offers the state seal that appears upon his license as a guarantee of his project and hs integrity.

The difficulty, however, that is frequently met in conforming with the provisions of the Ohio law stands in the way of offering within this state some of the best investment securities available. With the markets of other states open to them, the Ohio field is often ignored by the promoters of many excellent projects because of administrative difficulties and red tape here. The fraudulent promoter, on the other hand, can well afford to comply with the letter of the law, with the result that the Ohio blue law opens the state to enterprises of questionable integrity and closes the gate to many securities of the better type.

In his message to the legislature, the governor urged that the present law be revamped to afford the investor more effectual protection, or repealed and the department of securities abolished.

A bill has been introduced in the house which embodies the best features of blue sky laws of other states. Prepared after a dligent study by a committee of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, it places in the hands of the commissioner of securities full power to prevent the sale of fraudulent stocks, while encouraging the distribution within the state of sound investment securities.

Enactment of the assembly of this Fouts bill would be advantageous to Ohio investors and to distributors of securities of the better type, and would promote the industrial and financial welfare of the state.

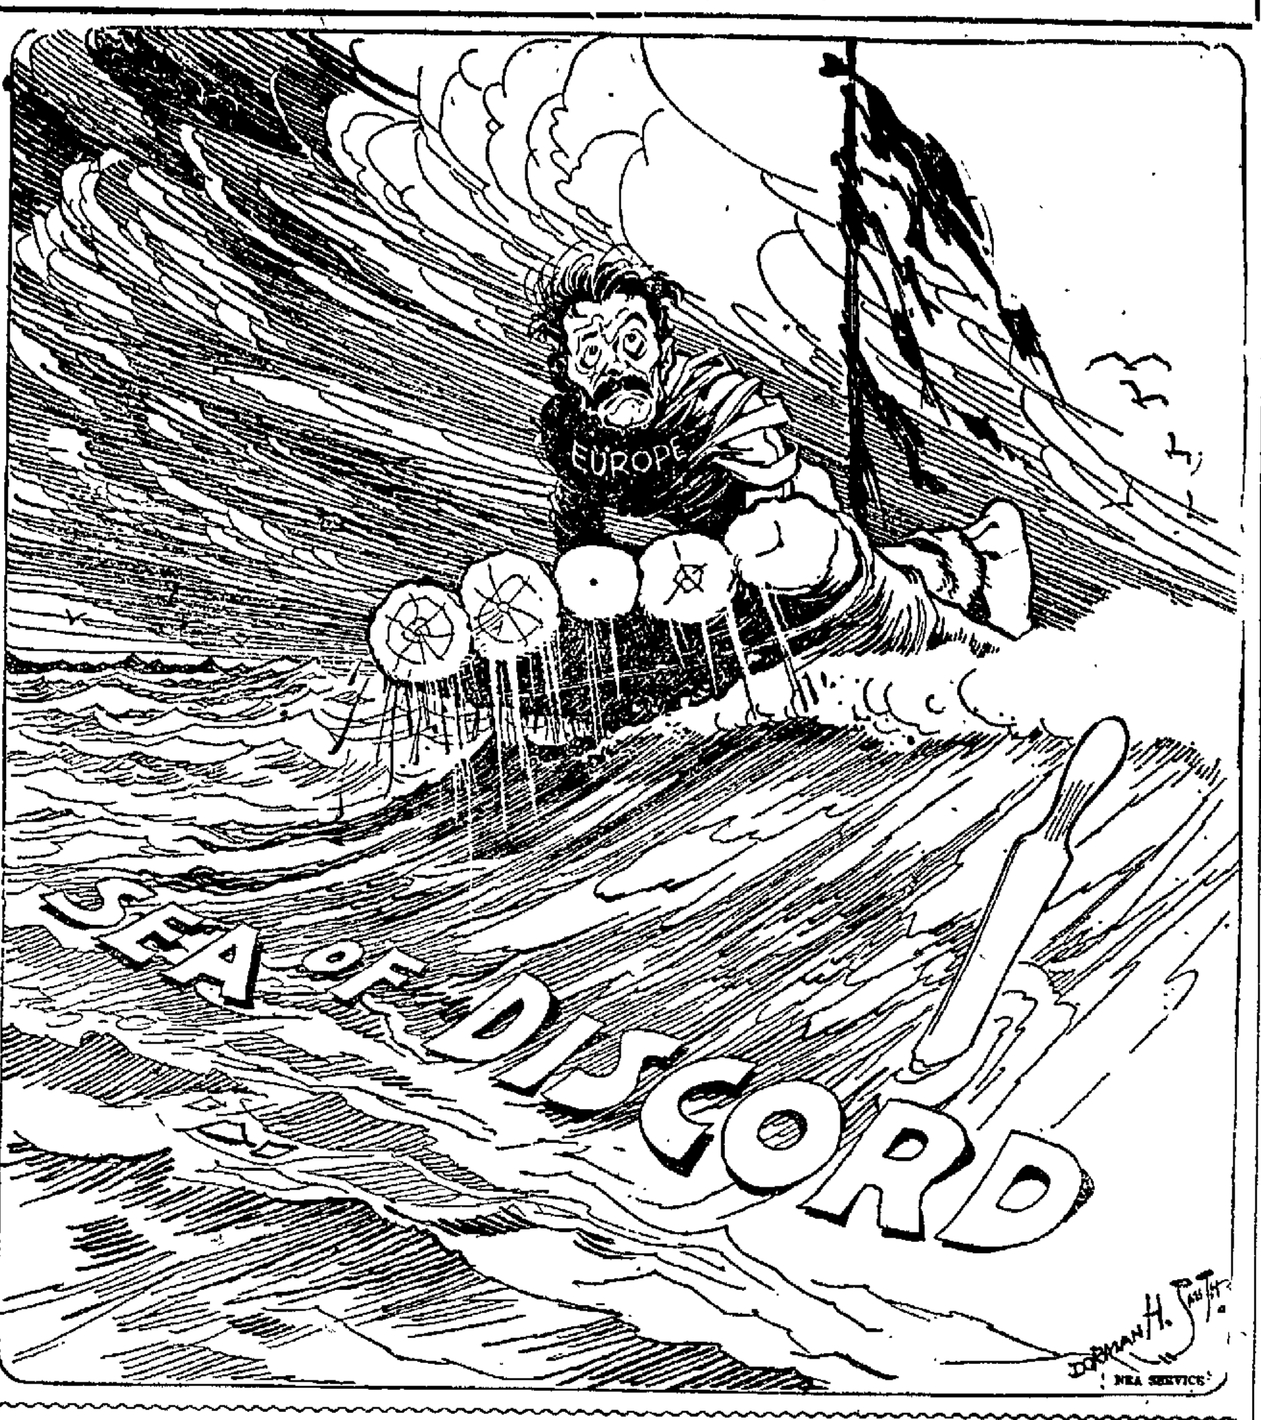
The Derelict



TALKS OF BRYAN AS A POSSIBILITY

Haskin Says William J. Always Possible Candidate While He Lives

He Is Always Prepared and Always Knows Political Situation

(By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.)

Washington, Feb. 12.—So long as he lives, Willyum Jennins Bryun, as he is pronounced where he is most beloved, will probably be a Democratic presidential possibility. He became that almost three decades ago in all these years when he has not been running for the big job he has been running the party which amounts practically to the same thing.

Always he has been in the race or all conditioned and nicely groomed to make the start, if occasion or necessity arise. To paraphrase his own words on an historic occasion, whatever they may say of him they can not say he has not tried, they can not say he has ever quit!

Other aspirants have always had to reckon with him. Either they have had to beat him, or they have had to overcome his opposition. The fact that he has been three times defeated at the polls has not served to eliminate him, and when the contest of 1924 is at its height it will be found that he is still a factor. At least it will be evidenced that he has not lost his voice or wavered in his fixed determination not to let his party go wrong, if he can help it.

Facetiously disposed persons asseverate that Mr. Bryan not only is a prospective candidate but has picked out a brand new paramount issue—Was Darwin Right or Wrong? They point out that the Bryan candidacy and paramount issues have always gone hand in hand, so to speak, and they say it is extremely significant that he should have raised the question of the Darwinian theory at this juncture in national and world affairs. The country was startled when Mr. Bryan took occasion to declare unequivocally that Darwin was wrong. It may be dumfounding to find that he has made the question a presidential issue.

It is an important question. Moreover, it has many of the essentials of a desirable campaign issue. It is debatable. Already the fires of controversy have started and are raging hot and furious. People can and will argue about it until they grow apoplectic and until family ties are broken and life-long friendships sundered. Armies of facts or what can be made to appear as facts can be marshalled on both sides and the imagination can run riot.

It lends itself readily to oratory. What subject could be so susceptible of sonorous phrasing, or so adapted to the delicate embroidering of the artist in words? Who so dumb that he could not be stirred to fervid flights of eloquence as he contemplates the progress of humankind along the corridors of time? What provokes man to such profound emotions as aspersions upon his ancestry?

Then, too, it can be made so magnificently, so overwhelmingly paramount. It is not to be confused or confounded with other issues. It has nothing whatever to do with the League of Nations, the tariff, the European debt, industrial problems, the Ku Klux Klan or prohibition. Wet or dry, as it were, man either has or he has not evoluted, and that goes for all the other more or less perplexing and irritating questions of the hour. Logically the thing to do is to settle the one big question and let the others slide.

Last of all, and this is wherein it commends itself to politicians and statemen alike, if it is made the paramount issue of the campaign and nothing need be done about it after the election. There will be no platform promises difficult or impossible of fulfillment. Indeed, the platforms might well be delightfully brief and to the point, for all that would be really necessary would be for one party to affirm its acceptance while the other asserted its rejection of the Darwinian theory, and this might be accomplished by a single explosive word, "Did!" or "Didn't!" Carrying the election would settle everything for the time being, at least, since manifestly legislation would not be required to put the Darwinian theory into operation or to abolish it.

Of course, if it should come to pass that a Darwin President were elected while the anti-Darwinites captured control of congress, there might be complications. In such circumstances almost anything might happen, for it must be remembered that only one small letter marks the difference between evolution and revolution and eight out of twelve of the months have "r" in them! Civilization, which has been tottering for so long, might do a complete Brodie.

However, anyone who has seen Leon Errol perform knows what a lot of tottering can be done without an actual fall. Besides if Mr. Bryan should get us into such a direful situation it is possible that he would know just what to do and how to do it to avert the final catastrophe.

But Mr. Bryan and his relation to the presidency are not to be considered in too much of a spirit of levity. Mr. Bryan is serious in all that he says and does and he is not to be regarded lightly, even by those who differ with his views or take some of them lightly. His career has been essentially dignified, and his earnestness and sincerity are not to be denied. He has exerted a great influence in the affairs of his party and of the country for considerably more than a quarter of a century and he has commanded a personal following such as it is given to few men to inspire and to lead.

Those who saw and heard Mr. Bryan at Chicago in 1896, at St. Louis in 1904, and at Baltimore in 1912, are not likely to underrate his power or his character. He was at his best and greatest, perhaps, at St. Louis in the early morning hours of that memorable session of the Democratic National Convention when Alton B. Parker served notice that he would not accept the presidential nomination unless there was a gold plank in the platform.

That was a situation without precedent or parallel, and never was a convention so demoralized, so utterly at loss to know what to do. It was an anti-Bryan convention. A large majority of the delegates were not merely against him but were ready virtually to read him out of the party. Under the direction of the bosses—the Murphys, Taggarts, Sullivans, Guffeys, and such—they had named a candidate for President who meant little more to them than a name, but in their hour extremity they did not turn to the bosses for guidance. They turned to the man they feared, or hated, or despised, and when he entered the Coliseum at dawn a hush came over that vast assemblage that was more thrilling than any ovation.

And Bryan told them to do as Judge Parker demanded, although they would have done anything else he said. He had been 3 hours without sleep, fighting in the committee on resolutions, and when he began to speak his voice was scarcely more than a whisper. As he proceeded, however, it was soon again that most wonderful of instruments that has thrilled and swayed thousands and tens of thousands, and when he reached his magnificent climax of self-defense, self-justification and defiance of his opponents—"Whatever they say of me, they cannot say I have not fought the good fight, they can not say I have not kept the faith' "—even the veteran newspaper correspondents, cynical blase and immune to oratory though they were, found themselves on their tables and chairs, cheering, waving flags and comporting themselves altogether like the most fervent believers in Bryan's greatness.

Again, eight years later at Baltimore—but that is too long a story. It suffices to say that the man who can do what Bryan has done will be a factor in the Democratic presidential situation until his voice is stilled forever and there are no longer any worthy disciples to do battle for his faith.

Q. Give a short sketch of Lincoln's life. L. E. S.

A. Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth President of the United States, was born near Hodgenville, in Hardin County, Ky., February 12, 1809. His ancestry has been traced back to Samuel Lincoln, of Norwich, England. All Lincoln's schooling combined would have made up one year. At the age of 21, Lincoln moved with his father to Illinois. In 1832 he was chosen captain of a company of volunteers for service in the Black Hawk war. On his return from this expedition he settled in New Salem; was a candidate for the legislature, but defeated at the polls; studied law; 1834 was elected to the legislature and a secon d time in 1836. In 1846 he was elected to congress. Following the formation of the present Republican party in 1856, Lincoln received 110 votes for Vice President; in 1860 he was elected President of the United States, was re-elected in 1864 and after the end fo the Civil War was busy with plans for reconstruction, when on April 14th, 1865, he was shot at Ford's theater, Washington, by James Wilkes Booth.

Q. What was Lincoln's religion? H. P. N.

A. Lincoln is quoted as having made the following statement to a friend on this subject: "I have all my life been a fatalist. What is to be will be or rather I have found all my life as Hamlet says 'There is a Divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will' " Mr. Lincoln's wife has stated that Abraham Lincoln had no religious faith in the usual acceptance of that word, but with him religion was a sort of poetry in his antu e. "Twice," says Mrs. Lincoln, "he seemed to think especially about religion, once when we lost our son William, and the second time when he went to Gettysburg." Mr. Lincoln's secretary while he was President is quoted as having said that "No man on earth had firmer faith in Providence than Abraham Lincoln. He believed in God and immortality, but did not believe in eternal punishment, but in rest after this life. He valued the truths of the Bible and while he belonged to no denomination, he made the Golden Rule of Christ his practical creed." Lincoln, like many other great men, was not what might be technically called a Christian. He never joined a church, although he was always spoken of as of a very religious nature.

Q. Where did Lincoln die?

A. The martyred President died in a small brick house at 516 10th street, across from Ford's theater. A Lincoln museum is now located there and is known as the Oldroyd Lincoln Memorial Collection. It contains books, papers, medals, statuary, original photographs, autograph letters, documents and furniture from the old homestead in Springfield, Ill.

Q. Please tell name of theater and name of play presented when Lincoln was shot S. E. duP.

A. "Our American Cousin" is the name of the play which Abraham Lincoln was attending at the time of his assassination in Ford's theater at Washington, D. C.

Q. What were the names of Abraham Lincoln's children? M. E.

A. The Lincolns, had four sons, Thomas, William, Edward Baker and Robert Todd Lincoln. The last named is the only one still living.

Q. What were Lincoln's nicknames? I. M. C.

A. He was known as Honest Abe and Father Abraham.

Q. What was Lincoln talking about when he was shot? G. T.

A. He had just remarked that he should like to visit Jerusalem.

Q. When did Lincoln say "You can fool all of the people some of the time; some of the people all of the time; but not all of the people all of the time? P. M.

A. The Wisdom of Lincoln, published in 1908, says that Abraham Lincoln employed the expression in a speech made at Clinton, Illinois on September 8, 1858.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

When Mrs. George E. Pickup entertained Saturday afternoon at her home in Hudson avenue with a bridge party, five tables were arranged for the players. The rooms were attractive with many spring flowers, including roses, narcissus, carnations and potted plants.

The favors for the game were received by Mrs. W. H. Davis and Mrs. W. W. Wehrle.

Mr. and Mrs. Pickup are entertaining with a bridge party this evening, and there will be six tables. Miss Marion Burkholder of Columbus is the only out-of-town guest.

Owing to the illness of the hostess Mrs. W. B. Nye, there was no meeting of the Review club Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Murray Cummings, Mrs. Wayne Baird and Mrs. Wilbur Merrick, arranged a dinner Sunday as a surprise for Mrs. James Broughton, at her home in Kibler avenue. The occasion was her birthday anniversary and covers were laid for nine.

The Progressive club meets Wednesday afternoon in the assembly room of the public library. Mrs. T. J. Evans will give a talk on her recent trip through the west. Each member is privileged to bring a guest.

Mrs. Emily Stoolfire will entertain the members of the Silent Circle of The King's Daughters with a six o'clock dinner and Valentine party Tuesday evening at her home in 131 North Fifth street. It will be the regular meeting of the circle, and all the members are invited.

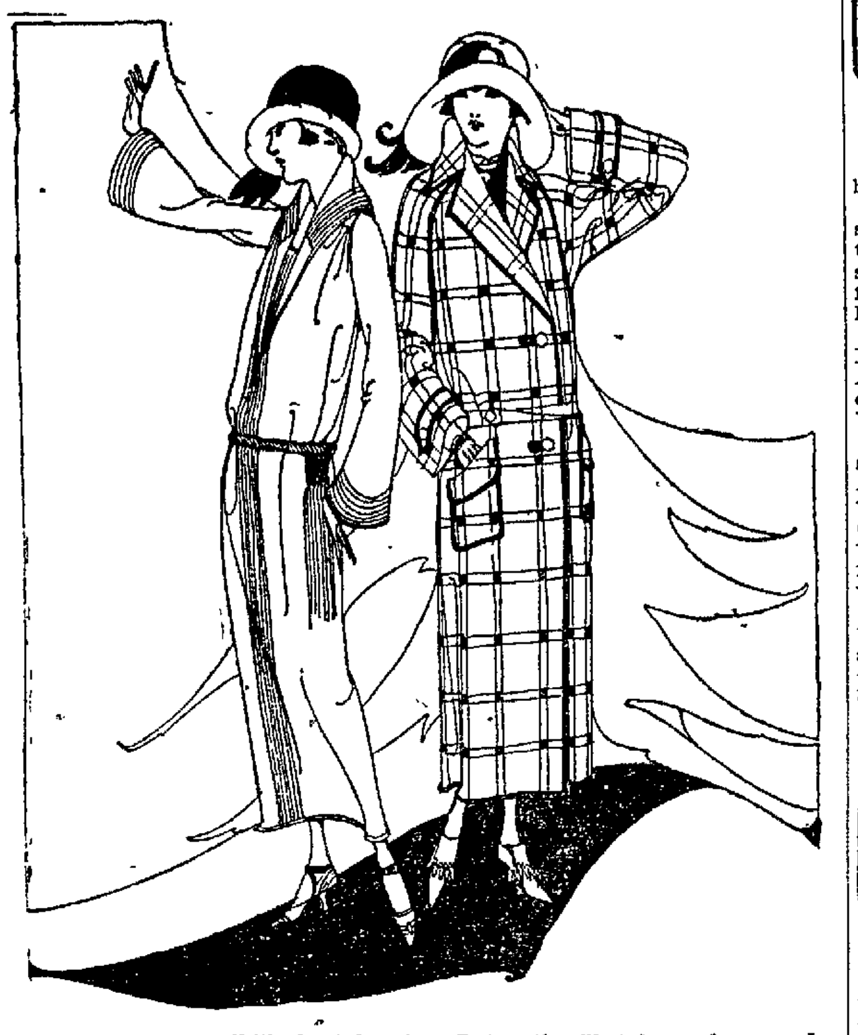
The wedding of Miss Esther McNerney and Mr. Cecil Lingafelter of Columbus will be solemnized at St. Francis de Sales church Tuesday morning at six-thirty o'clock, central standard time.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Simmons who are here in charge of the music at the evangelistic meeting at the First Presbyterian church, were delightfully entertained Saturday, at the home of Professor and Mrs. Charles B. White at Granville.

Miss Esther Marie Prysi entertained the members of the S-T-A-R class of the First Presbyterian church Friday afternoon at her home with a Valentine party. Valentine decorations were carried out throughout and the table was arranged with a Valentine centerpiece and favors. After the business meeting a social hour followed and refreshments were served the following: Margaret Prysi, Frances Stephenson, Nellie Holmes, Helen Bell, Anna May Pfeiffer, Velma Jones, Leontine Freednour, Adelaide Freednour, Grace Elizabeth Spees, Helen Skinner, Esther Marie Prysi and the teacher.

Miss Grace Evelyn Long entertained with a Valentine party at her home in Shields street, Friday evening. The hours were spent with games and dancing, and Miss Ruth Channell entertained with feature dances. A two-course dinner was served the following: Mises Thelma Harner, Mary Gienger, Hazel Gibbouy, Dorothy Emmerman, Fern Channell, Alice Stowell, Grace Anderson, Allison Grubb, Cecelia Martin, Ruth Channell and Betty Heiser.

TWEED SPORTS DRESESS



An especially well-liked style at present is the tailored sports dress. Tweeds of various colors and herringbone fabrics are worn in shades of brown, tan and gray.

Leather buttons and leather pipings are used to trim the smartest of them and as long as the weather permits they will be worn without wraps.

Later they'll take refuge under one of the heavy sports coats of camel's hair, tweed or checked wool fabrics.

The dress and topcoat sketched are typical of the vogue for good-looking trim and tailored sports wear that is as much at home on the campus or in the office as in the well-known open spaces.

The Woman's Guild of the First M. E. church will meet Wednesday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock in the church.

At eight o'clock this morning at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Rev. Father Charles Watterson solemnized the marriage of Miss Olva M. Glaub and Mr. Carl J. Scharf of Kenton.

The altar was banked with narcissus, cathedral candles and ferns, and the priedieux were draped in white with festoons of green smilax.

The attendants were Miss Anna Hang of Kenton and Mr. Hubert Rubeck of Newark. The bride wore a suit of blue poiret twill with hat and accessories of gray. The bridesmaid wore a suit of blue with a blue and gray hat. The bride's bouquet was a corsage of Ophelia roses and white sweet peas while the bridemaid wore pink roses and sweet peas.

Unusual Violin And Violinist To Be Heard Thursday

The bringing to Newark Thursday at two o'clock at Taylor Hall of Ora Delpha Lane, violinist of Zanesville, is said to be the crowning recital of the splendid season of the Woman's Music club. She will be assisted by Miss Ruth Koffes pianist.

Mrs. Lane is playing one of her best programs embracing German French, American and Belgium numbers. She has played in all countries during her travels and with many celebrities. She uses a genuine Grancino violin of the date of 1730 purchased by Joachim, one of her European teachers. During Mrs. Lane's stay in Berlin, Joachim used the violin for quartet work and later it was given to Eugene Adorjan, with whom she also studied in Cologne and Dusseldorf, and it was purchased from him.

Adrojan was an artist pupil of Joachim and he presented the violin to Adorjan when he was married. Mrs. Lane had the honor of being invited while at Dusseldorf, studying with Adjoran to be Adjoran's assistant. He was concert master of the Dusseldorf-Syen orchestra with whom she played the Bruch concerta.

So Newark music lovers will be unusually favored Thursday. The Woman's Music club has invited the Junior Music club to be its guests for this recital.

CHAPTER 53

THE PHOTOGRAPH

Who, Kate wondered, could JDC be?

Had the picture belonged to Alice? she questioned. Could there be, as the woman at the boarding house suggested, a man of whom Alice was fond? And, if so, why wasn't he with her?

The picture wasn't that of Sing Loy. It couldn't have been of Alice's father; it was too young, too delicate, the clothing too modern. Who then, could it be?

Suddenly Kate remembered the slender figure she had seen with Alice several weeks before as she was entering the hotel. She recalled the voice she had heard at that time and considered whether or not it might belong to the man whose photograph she held.

"It might," she said at length, talking half aloud. "A man with such a delicate chin, such a curving mouth, and eyes which laugh even though the face is at rest, would be very liable to have a voice eternally boyish."

Glancing out of the window she saw Justin, Dorothy, and Monk, the dog, making their way across the field toward the cottage. Dorothy was running ahead, with her hand on Monk's collar.

As she watched the child, dark eyed, elfin, it occurred to her that she bore a slight resemblance to the man in the photograph. He was not unlike Dan in type. A certain daring, the half laughing eyes, were very like Dan. The three, Dorothy, Dan and the man in the picture seemed to have traits in common. It puzzled Kate, disturbed her.

It occurred to her that Dorothy might know the photographed face. As she opened the door for her father and little girl, Kate had the picture in her hand.

She showed it to Justin first.

"This isn't anything of yours, is it?" she asked.

"No," he said. "Where did you get it? Someone must have carried it in a watch or locket," he added as he examined the circular bit of paper.

"I found it in the room which Alice occupied," Kate said, and then, speaking to the child, "Dorothy, have you seen this man?" she asked.

As the question left her lips, Kate was half angry with herself. Why had she spoken of the thing to the child? What right had she to pry into the affair of someone else simply because she had found a picture on the floor of her room? She regretted not having put the picture in an envelope and sent it immediately to Alice.

"I've never seen him," said the child.

The first prize, a sun compass, was won by a Newark scout. The treasure hunt was arranged the day before, by placing twigs along to form a trail at the end of which a pdize was placed The trail was made on Friday and the snow fell in the night and covered the twigs which made it doubly difficult to follow. Not only was it necessary to find the end of the trail but also name the tree from which the twigs were cut. Only four Utica Scouts went on the trail Stanley Wilson, Howard Smith, Robert Kirkpatrick and Arthur Weston Harold McCann took them to Newark Saturday morning where they joined the Newark troops and hiked the eight miles out to camp and back. Each scout took his own food which he cooked after he reached camp. The camp had prepared plenty of hot cocoa for all of them

The Valentine tea given by the Kings Daughters Friday night was a success in spite of the disagreeable weather and sickness, the proceed being about $30. The program which was rendered by the high school orchestra and glue club was well given and displayed some real talent. Miss Kempton deserves much credit as leader and instructor.

The Phi Delta Kappa dance which was held in K. of P. hall in Newark Friday night was attended by the following Utica people: Mr. and Mrs. Claud Williams, J. P. Bosler, Marguarita Kidwell, Faurell Feese, Creed Jones, Sam Sidesticker, Kenneth Jones and Rodgers Brinkerhoff.

FORCED TO GO TO TOWN

Here is a typical story, one of thousands in the West, for the accuracy of which Secretary Wallace vouches: A husky and thrifty farmhand, eager to advance, rented 320 acres on shares. He and his wife worked early and late With the aid of one hired man they got along until they had accumulated 100 head of cattle and as many hogs. Their prices and hopes were high—until the slump. Then they let the hired man go and tried to sell the live stock. But what they could get would not begin to pay what they owed So the last scene in the picture shows these two discouraged, middle-aged Americans piling their few personal belongings into a wagon and starting back to town to hunt any kind of a job through no fault of their own Lack of more liberal farm credits, lack of lower freight rates and need of a larger foreign market is bankrupting many farmers.

JAZZ GIVES HIM BLUES

"Day by day, in every way the almighty dollar is getting to be a more active competitor of Almighty God in the American home," says Edward C. Mercer, Episcopal missionary.

"As a nation," he indicts "we are fast getting into a position where we should change the motto on our money 'In God We Trust' the motto of our forefathers, will have to be erased from our coins if the American mother and father continue their mad race for money, pleasure and excitement"

"There is little or no guardianship in the American home as far as the children are concerned. Petting parties, unchaperoned affairs, the effort to be old before they are young, are fast ruining American youth."

Mercer is a relative of President Chester A. Arthur and as a boy resided in the White House.

Many a fellow just bores his way through life, but it doesn't augur well with him

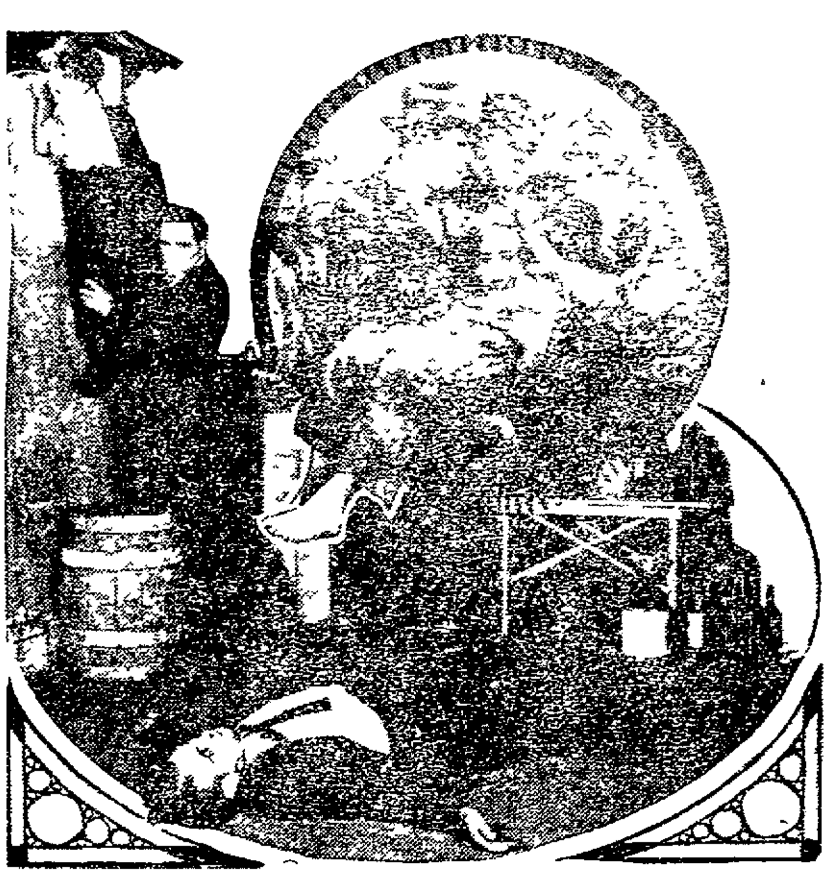
"YOU NEVER KNOW" AT GRAND THEATER

There is always something romantic and appealing in photoplays and stories woven around the intriguings and revolutions of South American republics. It is such a theme that furnished Earle Williams a delightful vehicle in which to shine at the Grand theater, today last times The picture was entitled "You Never Know", and in truth one seldom did know just what might be expected next That the hero was not what he appeared was self-evident from the start, otherwise he would not have been the hero The question resolved itself into the interrogative "Who was he?" You are tempted to follow it with "What was he doing and how did he expect to accomplish it?" if you could stay your attention from the screen long enough to think that far.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT OF "THIRD ALARM"

A real estate dealer's great dream that went awry was responsible for Emory Johnson being able to secure a big five story apartment building, which was set afire and entirely destroyed by flames to furnish the stupendous fire scenes in



SCENE FROM "YOU NEVER KNOW"

"The Third Alarm," his second big F B O. production.

The real estate dealer constructed the building on the outskirts of Los Angeles, thinking the city would grow in that direction. The building was later condemned by the city as a fire trap, and Emory Johnson, seizing opportunity by the fetlock, purchased the entire structure at a cost of several thousand dollars.

Under the supervision of the Los Angeles fire department, the big building was set afire, enabling Director Johnson to secure some of the most spectacular fire scenes ever enacted before a camera.

Ralph Lewis plays the leading role in "The Third Alarm" with the supporting cast including Johnnie Walker, Ella Hall, Virginia True Boardman, Richard Morris, Josephine Adair and Frankie Lee.

"The Third Alarm" will play a return engagement by request at the Grand theater tomorrow and Wednesday.

GOOD CAST IN ALHAMBRA SHOW

"PARDON MY GLOVE" WITH BOBBY VERNON

The complete Auditorium picture program of yesterday has been placed for showing at the Alhambra The comedy 'Pardon My Glove" starring Bobby Vernon is a dandy and is full of laughs The story:

Things indeed looked black. Jimmie woke up in the morning with a black eye, so black a whole beef steak did not seem to help, to be presented with a newspaper bearing the details of his escapade of the night before He had knocked the contender out To add insult to injury, the lady professors failed properly to appreciate his prowess and had him expelled from college

STORY "ANNA ASCENDS" MOST APPEALING

Fired by ambition, Anna Ayyob a Syrian girl comes to this country and gets a job as waitress in Siad Coury's coffee house in New York She carries her own little dictionary and when Howard Fisk son of a wealthy newspaper publisher, comes to the coffee house to investigate a tip that jewels from Russian Royalists are being smuggled into the United States, she falls desperately in love with him.

Anna's part in unravelling the mystery is interesting and "Anna Ascends" comes to the Auditorium Wednesday.

BILLY ALLEN MUSICAL COMEDY COMPANY SOON

ELSA RYAN IN "THE INTIMATE STRANGERS"

At the Auditorium Saturday, Augustus Pitou will present the dainty comedienne, Miss Elsa Ryan in Booth Tarkington's latest and greatest comedy success "The Intimate Strangers" the vehicle which lured Miss Ryan back to the legitimate stage from her triumphant excursion into vaudeville. "The Intimate Strangers" is said to be a brilliant American comedy, offering novel situations; sparkling in dialogue clever to the extreme in typical Tarkintgon characterization and compels, from the beginning to the final curtain, a constant flow of happy laughter. The gracious and lovely presence of Elsa Ryan, who, threatened at first to have her artistic merits swamped by the charm of her delightful personality, has risen to greater heights than ever before attained.

POWERFUL DRAMA IN UNUSUAL FILM

That sparkling dynamo of ever-changing emotions—modern Woman—is revealed in all her strength and weakness by Daniel Carson Goodman's unusual photoplay "What's Wrong With the Women?" shown for the first time yesterday at the Auditorium theater.

It is a big theme upon which this powerfully dramatic subject is founded. It deals not merely with individuals Mr Goodman, who wrote and also produced it, goes beyond the little group of interesting characters with which he tells his deeply moving story.

Owing to the great success of this photoplay and the great lesson it taught, the management deemed it wise to hold it over and owing to the Elk's Minstrels holding the stage of the Auditorium, it will be screened at the Alhambra for three days beginning today. The usual dime matinees will be given.

CARTER DE HAVENS IN "A RINGER FOR DAD"

SATURDAY ATTRACTION IS "CHASING SALLY"

By the local and surrounding country billing, there is evidence that the advance agents of W. B. Patton have been here and gone after completing their work, and by this time every theater patron knows two performances at the Auditorium on Saturday. Mr. Patton and his excellent company need no introduction, as he has been coming here annually for many years in various productions and has many friends and admirers. "The Good Samaritan", "The Slow Poke," "The Blockhead," "The Last Rose of Summer," "Lazy Bill," "His Friend the Widow", are still fresh in the minds of those who appreciate plays of human interest.

OLD TIME AMATEUR NIGHT TO BE HELD

The Auditorium management has been approached with the request "Why Not An Old Time Amateur Night?" so as to please all and possibly find some real local talent, he has set Wednesday night, between the first and second show of the movies, to put on "Ye Old Time Amateur Night" with three cash prizes as the bait to get the best talent out. Already he has five names and they and their turns will be announced tomorrow. If this is a success, other nights will be set to try out amatuers of Newark and vicinity.

THE INTIMATE STRANGERS
A GUARANTEED ATTRACTION TO THE THEARTREGOERS OF NEWARK:-

I have secured for Friday night, February 16, a legitimate attraction of unusual merit, and which promises to be one of the most interesting of the season. This attraction is Miss Elsa Ryan, in Booth Tarkington's latest and best comedy, "The Intimate Strangers," which is one of the real hits of the season. This attraction recently played Omaha, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Indianapolis and Milwaukee, whose newspaper critics were unanimous in the lavish praise of Star, Play and Company. The attraction is under the management of Agustus Pitou, who also manages Fiske O'Hara and Miss May Robson. I believe that the combination of such a star-actress as Miss Ryan, a Tarkington play, and the well known management, is going to make for an unusually heavy demand for seats, and we respectfully suggest and advise all who desire choice seats for this performance, to send in their orders for seats by Mail, which will be promptly attended to when accompanied with check or money order for the amount of seats desired, plus 10% War Tax.

BROAD AND WALL

Each square foot of land sustains a fabulous valuation and must yield a commensurate return.

There are no great financial institutions located on some streets scarce a stone's throw distant from this favored spot---streets equally blessed with material advantages, but obscure.

Ah! There's the rub---OBSCURE!

And yet these great financial institutions, paying tremendous sums for the privilege of their place in the sun, maintain that they "do not advertise."

FRANCE IS LIKE SHERIFF TRYING TO COLLECT DEBT

Ohio Ex-Soldier Tells Why American Legion Endorsed French Occupation of Ruhr.

(The national executive committee of the American Legion endorsed the occupation of the Ruhr by France, in a resolution offered by Brig.-Gen. John R. McQuigg, committeeman for Ohio. The author of the resolution tells why the American Legion approves the occupation.)

(By Brig.-Gen. J. R. McQuigg)

Cleveland, Feb. 12.—In 1914 for the second time within 50 years France was attacked and invaded by Germany.

Seven of the richest and most productive provinces of France were devastated. More than 12,000 square miles of territory were laid waste. Thousands of villages, towns and cities were destroyed.

Germany at last sued for peace and the armistice was signed. Came then the peace conference.

That greatest court in history, for such it was, decided Germany shrould pay certain amounts as damages for the destruction she had caused.

The amount of this award was 132 billion gold marks, which was accepted unconditionally by Germany on May 11, 1921. By agreement of the allies France was to have 52 per cent.

With the acceptance by Germany, the award became an obligation, a lien upon all the resources of the German Republic.

Within a short time after the award Germany fell in arrears and the people of Germany began to send out of the country gold, securities and other forms of wealth and to seriously impair the whole German financial system for the purpose of avoiding payment.

In the United States if one man owes another a debt secured by lien or mortgage and the debtor refuses to pay, the mortgage is foreclosed, the property sold and the debt paid. If a judgment for damages is awarded and the judgment debtor refuses to pay, an execution is issued, a levy made by the sheriff and his property sold to satisfy the judgment.

This is exactly what France is doing. The court was the peace conference: the sheriff is the French army, and the whole procedure thus far is very much in accord with the way individuals do things in America even in time of peace.

The American Legion approves the action of France in occupying the Ruhr.

First. Because the award was a righteous one rendered by a competent court and accepted by Germany.

Second: Because Germany has voluntarily defaulted and refused to pay and has wrecked her whole financial system for the purpose of avoiding payment.

Third: Because the course taken by France is the only effective course left to her in dealing with an obstinate debtor.

Fourth: Because Germany has refused to levy taxes and take other steps necessary to enable her to pay the debt. We in the United States are paying three times as much national tax as Germany, and France is paying more than four times as much per capita as Germany.

Fifth: Because if Germany is not made to pay the damage caused by her, someone else will have to pay it.

Sixth: Because, if Germany is not made to pay, the slaughter and expenditure of material and effort necessary to win on the battlefield will have been, to a large extent, in vain and there will be little to deter nations from running amuck in the future and making an assault on civilization whenever they think they are sufficiently strong to win.

CAN'T LOSE STATION

Once a radio fan is tuned in on a broadcasting station there is no reason for his losing it at the end of a selection. This is because nearly every station has a system by which it keeps the listener notified he is tuned in while waiting for the next number. In some cases it is a whistle, in others a tick, and others chimes.

You can never tell. The Jollier doesn't always have the most fun.

AND SOME ONE WILL GRAB IT.

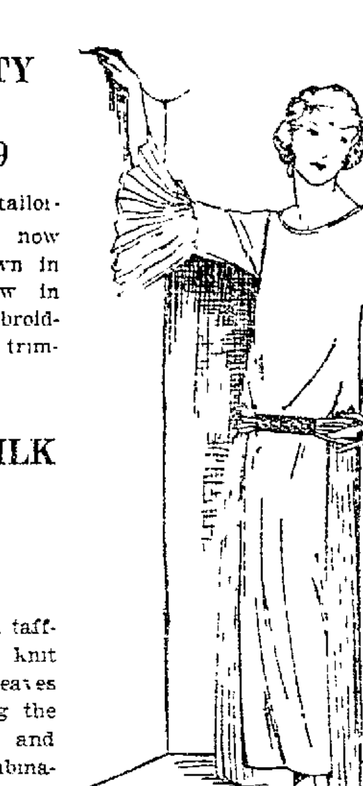
The Economical Woman--

needs only be reminded that the first spring days are coatless days. She at once sees her opportunity in our end-of-the season dress clearance, which includes pretty modes for dress and street occasions. But we advise an early selection, before these are picked over.



ONE ALWAYS NEEDS A PRETTY WOOL DRESS AT $15 AND $19

You can choose stylish tailored models suitable for now and early spring. Shown in blue, black and a few in brown. Braids and embroidered designs form pretty trimmings.

ATTRACTIVE SILK DRESSES NOW PRICED $18.00 AND $25.00

These are fashioned from taffeta, crepes and crepe knit weaves, the desirable weaves for spring wear. Among the colors are navy, brown and black. Some show combinations with paisley, others, touches of bright embroidery.

SOME FINE SILK SPORT DRESSES REDUCED TO $15.00 AND $22.00

These are some of the finer dresses carried from last season. Shown in bright or dull shades, in china blue, deep red, light green, orchid, tan and brown. These are made of handsome crepe weaves in silk, and are surely very cheap at the present prices.

FIND THE ARTIST SELLING DRYGOODS

Critics admiring a beautiful painting combed the studios for the artist. They found her—Bee Reynolds, 18—selling goods across the counter in an Oklahoma City department store. Bee explained she'd studied art before her father, oil man, lost his fortune.

CARE OF LAMBS IS VITAL MARKET FACTOR

The rapid development and profitable gains of lambs depend largely upon their freedom from disease and upon the nourishment they get during the first few months of their lives, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Both disease and lack of proper nourishment, if continued for a numebr of days or weeks, tends to stunt the young animals. An animal once thoroughly stunted requires a long time for recovery. In fact, 4 months which is usually a desiraole age at which to sell lambs to the best advantage is not sufficient for the animal to recuperate and develop into a choice market lamb say the department specialists. Lambs, therefore, should not only be properly nourished but must also be kept free from the various ailments of young lambs if the greatest amount of money is to be realized from them at market time.

Lambs from well bred ewes which are properly cared for have troubles or diseases. There are however, several ailments which sometimes appear among lambs which if not given attention at the proper time may cause considerable loss or affest their early development and hence their market value and profit.

Some of the infectious diseases of lambs, such as joint ill and others may cause quite serious losses. Some of thesediseases do not respond rapidly to treatment but they can be prevented by proper sanitary conditions. Clean, well bedded and well ventilated quarters should be provided for the ewes and lambs in order to prevent these diseases. Sore eyes or a sore mouth often develops, particularly if the flock is kept in unsanitary quarters or if they are exposed to rainy weather and the udder and flanks of the ewe become wet and dirty. In case of sore eyes amoung the lambs the eyes should be cleansed each day until cured with a 3 per cent solution of boric acid or a 15 per cent solution of argyrol. If the lambs are troubled with sore mouth all the scab and diseased tissue should be scraped away and the sore covered with sheep dip or carbolated vaseline.

Constipation is one of the most common ailments of young lambs. This may be remedied by giving one or two ounces of castor or linseed oil.

White scours is another infectious disease of lambs which may become quite serious and affect large numbers of the lambs where the flock is kept in unsanitary quarters. Lambs and their dams so affected should be taken from the flock and isolated. Such lambs should be given two teaspoonfuls of castor oil which should be followed for several days by daily doses of one-half teaspoonful of salicylic acid.

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF OPPORTUNITIES

——was a dominant characteristic of Abraham Lincoln. Never did he overlook them, not even the slighest. Opportunities didn't have to be flagrantly apparent for him either; he hunted for them——he found them; in the end they waited for him. It isn't a gift, it's merely wisdom. That's why we consider it vastly fitting that February Lincoln's month is so definitely a month of opportunities. This year our patrons will find values offered more significant than ever.
